EL PASCO, Tex., October 7.—[Special.]—In the United States court today Judgo Maxey handed down a decision in the case of the El Paso Ice and Refrigerating Company against the Atchinson, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company, in which he holds that the long and short haul clause of the interstate commerce law does not apply to charges for transportation of freight between points within a territory, but that the territories stand upon the same footing as the states in this respect. The point in question has not been passed upon before any court.

RUBE BURROWS

OAUGHT AND CHAINED IN LINDEN

THE BRAVE DEED OF TWO NEGROES.

Outlaw Tracked Through Alabama by Detectives—A Rain Storm Drives Him Into Covering, When He Is Seized.

Telegrams were received here tonight ancing the capture of the noted trainobber, Rube Burrows, in Monroe county,

He was caught this afternoon by a farmer amed McDuffie, who succeeded in drawing him into a trap. The great outlaw was secured without struggle, and is in jail at Linden, Marengo nty, Alabama.

The total of the rewards offered for the ture of Burrows is $7,500. The South-Express Company, which has been the reatest sufferer by his robberies, has spent mands of dollars in efforts to capture him. In addition to his numerous robberes, he is wanted in Lamar and Blount ties in this state for murder.

THE STORY OF HIS CAPTURE. DEMOFOLIS, Ala., October 7 .- [Special.]-This afternoon, in South Marengo, Mr. John McDuffie and others, sent out by the Southern Express Company, captured the real, genuine Rube Burrows.

As reported in the daily papers, he was making his way back to Lamar county, had passed through Monroe, and has been in Marengo the past few days. Detectives assisted by deputy sheriffs, have been lose behind him in this county since Sun-

Today Mr. McDuffie came upon Rube, who had stopped out of the rain in a house. Mr. McDuffie arranged with two colored men to go in the house, ostensibly for some other

HOW HE WAS SRIZED. Rube had placed his rifle in the corner of he room, but had his revolvers on him. The darkies engaged him in conversation, and then grabbed him by his hands, preventing his shooting. He fought the darkies manfully, until McDuffie and others got in, when, after a desperate struggle, they succeeded in conquering and securely ticing the great des-

STRAPPED HAND AND FOOT. McDuffie went to Linden jail this afternoon, with Rube strapped hand and foot in front of him on his horse, being across the head on one side and the feet on the other. His position was very painful, but he had to be allowed no chances. The great Rube is now in jail in reality. He had only $17,800 on his person. Mr. Agee and Mr. Fisher, both superintendents of the Southern Express Company, are in this city, and will go to Linden to pay Mr. Rube a call. Superintendent Agee is greatly centhused over the capture of the long-sought and hunted Rube, and is the happiest man in Demopolis tonight.

THE BRAVERY OF THE COLORED MEN. The two colored men showed great courage in making the first steps towards capturing Rube. They will doubtless be handsomely rewarded.

THE REWARDS OUT.

The whole amount of rewards for Rube s $7,500, of which McDuffie a large share. The whole town here is in a fit of excitement over the news of the celebrated capture. Linden jail will have the honor of having first held the notorious outlaw in chains.

CHASING THE DESPERADO.

Mr. D. J. Meader sent a special courier o Superintendent Fisher and Agee last ht, stating that Rube had passed his folia yesterday, making inquiries as to a ferry near by. All the detectives came to this place last night for consultation with Messrs. Fisher and Agee. This morning they left for the place of Rube's whereabouts. The deputy sheriffs of this county, Beck and McDuffie, showed especial determination in the hunt for Rube.

THE WHOLE CROWD CAUGHT. There were originally five men in the Burrows gang, and all five have now been arrested. No man is now at large who can say that he ever robbed a Southern express train. Superintendents Fisher and Agee state that about $10,000 has been spent in 'he capture of Rube and his gang.

Rube doesn't hesitate to acknowledge his name and identity. He will be brought here tomorrow. Messrs. McDuffie, J. G. Carter and two colored men captured Rube without a drop of blood being spilt.

RUBE'S LAST VISIT TO MONTGOMERY. MONTGOMERY, Ala., October 7 .- [Special.] About a week ago it was reported that Burrows had crossed the Alabama river near Claiborne, making his way northwest to Lamar county, his old home. The express company immediately sent detectives with hounds to that locality, and struck the trail, which was followed up closely, resulting in his capture as

The capture of Rube Burrows removes from eedom the last of the most desperate and fearless gang of train robbers that ever inested the south. He has been interested in train robberies without number in Texas. An kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, and one in this

Rube visited this city about four years ago in company with his brother, Jim Burrows. They were on the south-bound Louisville and Nashville train, and their actions aroused the sus-picion of Conductor Callahan, who telegraphed to the chief of police of this city asking h lave officers meet the train. Captain Martin and Policemen Corrigan and McGee went to the train, and when the two men landed, they were towed to the guardhouse, where a struggle took place, in which Rube escaped after shooting a citizen, who attempted to stop him. Jim was sent to the Arkansas peniter tiary; where he died within a year.

The Inquest Rendered.

CHARLESTON, S. C., October 7.—[Special.]—An inquest was held today on the body of J. G. Schuh, who hung himself: on a South Carolina railway train. The verdict was death by suicide. Conductor Gilbert testified that the man got on the train at Columbia, having a ticket bought at Spartanburg to Charleston. There was no evidence of his drinking, nor of his being non compos mentis.

He was picked up in an insensible condition and carried into a drug store near by, where physicians examined his wound. His skull was found to be crushed near the center of his forehead, and several pieces of bone were removed. Casey, as soon as he had struck the blow, made his escape. RALEIGH, N. The case is very interesting. Jacobs and Alex Orxindine murdered the old woman, were tried and convicted. They appealed, and at the last term the supreme court confirmed the judgment. A few days before, Jacobs, aided by a friend, broke jail. His death warrant was issued, but of course there was no execution. He was recaptured in Georgia last August, and a warrant was issued for a respite so that the question could be decided whether the court could pass upon his case while he was not in custody. HENRY HOWREN DEAD. The Reformed Journalist Dies in Charles-

CHARLESTON, S. C., October 7 .- [Special.] Henry D. Howren, the evangelist, died here this afternoon, after an illness of several months. The deceased was a well-known journalist, having been at various times connected with newspapers in this and other southern cities. He was born in Bainbridge, Ga., in 1857, and was educated by Bishop Pierce at Emory college, Ga. Shortly after he graduated from college, he went to Florida, where his parents were living. He was sent to the Florida legislature when about 22 years old. Howren was a brilliant writer, and would have attained eminence in the profession of journalism, but for his one fault. In April 1889, he announced that he had foresworn rum, and that he in-tended to devote the rest of his life to preaching the gospel and temperance. He received a big sendoff here, making his first appearance as an evangelist, at O'Neill's grand opera house. There were no clergymen on the stand on that occasion. He made his debut surrounded by his newspaper friends, one of whom introduced him to the immense audi-After that he made a successful tour throughout this state and Georgia, and subsequently was received in the Methodist ministry. The Women's Christian Temperance Union took him up and made him an honorary member.

About two months ago he had a drinking spell, and it proved too much for his feeble constitution. A widow lady, Mrs. McCown, nursed him faithfully through his illness, and his newspaper friends, as soon as they were in-formed of his illness, also proferred aid. He had the best of medical skill, Dr. Manning Simmons, offering his services free as consulting physician. The funeral will take place to

Oil and an Explosion Takes Place.

St. Louis, October 7.—A small fire last night resulted in a terrific explosion by which ten persons were badly hurt, two of whom will die. A fire starting from gasoline occurred in the rear of Ross's grocery, Twelfth and Cass streets. While the firemen were fighting the fire the flames communicated with a twenty-five gallon tank of coal oil which exploded, blowing the entire east wall of the two-story building into the street. Six firemen were hurt, three the entire east wall of the two-story bulling into the street. Six firemen were hurt, three of them seriously. John Brady, a spectator, had both legs broken and his back hurt, and will die. Rosa Pulaski had her head split open and cannot recover. Kennie Herrick, also a spectator, was badly crushed and is in a serious condition. Two unknown men received slight injuries.

The Child Got Too Much.

Montgomery, Ala., October 7.— [Special.]—
A little child of Dr. and Mrs. Kemp, on Robinson street, was suffering with a severe cough last night, and Mrs. Kemp gave it a dose of cough mixture. The child became quiet, and went to sleep. The parents awoke later and found the child in convulsions. It was discovered that Mrs. Kemp had allowed the child to drink too much of the cough mixture. Upon examination of the bottle, remedies were administered, and when Dr. Kemp came down to his work this morning, the child appeared to be resting quietly and doing very well. About 11 o'clock a telephone message was received that his child was dead.

Will All Fight Tammany. New York, October 7.—Republicans, county democrats and the people's municipal league, at a secret conference last night agreed to unite upon the nomination of a democrat for mayor to run against Tammany's candidate, whoever he may be. THE FORCE BILL.

HOW IT IS TO BE FORCED TO A CON-CLUSION.

THE MAJORITY TO CUT OFF DEBATE.

The Programme Which the Republican Have Arranged for Forcing a Vote on the Force Bill In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, October 7.—[Special.]—The programme for the passage of the force bill through the senate at the December session of ongress has been arranged.

There will be no formal change of the rules The bill will simply be called up during the first week of the session, and after what the republicans consider a reasonable time has been consumed in debate, some republican senator will ask for an agreement as to a time for taking the vote on the passage of the bill. If the democrats object, as they surely will do, then this senator will simply make a motion that the final vote be taken at a certain hour on a certain day. At this, of course, the democrats will protest, but it has been arranged that the presiding officer shall put the ques tion and instruct the clerk to call the roll. A republican quorum will be on hand at the time-consequently, even if the democrats refuse to vote, it will do no good. By this neans, although contrary to the long standing rules of the senate, a vote on the force bill can be had, and the republicans, if they show a solid front, can pass the infamous measure. It is, however, not yet certain by any means that the republicans of the south will be any more united on this bill next session than they were at the session just closed.

MUST GO BACK TO THE HOUSE. However, in the event the force bill passe the senate before the first of December, which is not probable, then it will have to go back to the house on account of amendments and pass that body again. The democrats will that make the same kind of a fight on this bill that they made on the Venable-Langston contested election case. They will, however, not fight this bill alone, but will commence on other important measures as soon as it becomes evi dent that the force bill will pass the senate, and, by this means, will block all legislation just as it was done in the senate at the last session and force the republicans to a compromise by which the force bill will be dropped. If the republicans get a quorum of their own here, nowever, the democrats will be powerless, and the force bill will become a law.

In the little handbook of the republican party, gotten out for use in the approaching ongressional campaign, there are many paragraphs well baited to catch voters on the republican hook.

One of the many of these paragraphs is the remarkable statement that $2 out of every $5 of the revenues of the government are paid to the old soldiers in the shape of pensions. This statement, although remarkable, is true since the new pension laws have gone into effect.

This might catch the old soldiers, but it will ot be relished by the workingmen and farmers, who pay the taxes, and who, but for this, would buy many articles necessary to their existence and comfort for a little over half what they now pay. Indeed, under this arrangement, 40 cents of every dollar of taxes you pay goes to pensions, a large portion of which is paid to men who never heard a gun fire during the entire four years of the war.

WORKING FOR THE NEXT HOUSE. The republican campaign committee is making heroic efforts to carry the house. It has money by the barrel and more is coming in daily. The republican manufacturers who are protected by the McKinley bill have put up all the money they promised, and consequently the republican managers are happy.

They know if money will make votes they can carry the next house.

Right now McKinley's district is receiving democratic majority, but if money can overcome this, Major McKinley will be returned to the fifty-first congress. Indeed, in all the close districts the republicans will spend money by the barrel, but very little of it will turned loose until one or two days preceding the election. They do not intend to buy their votes more than once. GEORGIA TO BE FLOODED.

Georgia is to get the benefit of some of this oney in two of her districts-the first and

Of course every one in Georgia recognizes that Doyle's case is hopeless in the first. How ever, he has a "pull" through Patrick Ford editor of The Irish World, and Steve Elkins and the order has been issued that he shall be supplied with a few thousand. Of course the republican committee is of the opinion that this money will be well spent, and that with it the chances of a republican congressman from the first Georgia will be good.

The money the republicon committee will send to the ninth to be used in Darnell's cause goes out at the request of the president and Attorney General Miller. It is in accordance with the dicker Darnell and Buck made with the president, by which Darnell secured the district attorneyship plum over Ed Angier Dornell said with $5,000 he would be able carry the ninth, and furthermore, he and Buck pledged the Georgia delegation in the nex presidential convention to vote for Mr. Har ison's renomination.

In the event of Darnell's election Ed Angier is to be district attorney.

THE BUNGLING CENSUS. It was developed at the census office today that the population of the United States would fall considerably below the estimate given out a month ago. At that time it was estimated that the population would be 64,000,000. Now it is known that it will not exceed 63,000,000. The Dunnell reapportionment bill was drawn up, based on the first estimate, and provides for 154 members of the house of representatives-one representative for every 180,000 population. Now, the bill will have to be changed, if the membership of the house is to be 154 and provision made for one representative to every 178,000 of population. Under this, it is not improbable that Georgia will get an extra member, for, after providing for her ten members, there will be a ratio of mates, and there is where the los books of the treasury as a partial offset to the amount charged against the state of Georgia

AND HE MAKES SEVERAL SPEECHES.

The President Becomes Sad While the Trai Is Passing the Grave of His Grand-father-His Arrival In Indiana.

NORTH VERNON, Ind., October 7.-Today ha been one of ovations for President Harrison Kentucky, Ohio and Indians have joined in doing him homage, and in the land of Dixie the greeting was no less warm than in his native state. It was hardly more than daybreak when the president was up and bowed his ac-knowledgements to the bustling, enthusiastic Kentuckians that crowded the depots as the train passed through.
IN CINCINNATI.

Cincinnati was reached at 7:30 o'clock, and here John C. New and Congressman C. H. Grosvenor joined the party. Despite the early hour, several thousand people were at the Central station to greet the president, among the number being his nephew, Archibald Eaton, of Cincinnati.

He called on all classes At 8 o'clock the train promptly pulled out with a Lawrenceburg coal committed aboard. The principal event of the day was now to come. PASSING THE OLD HOMESTEAD. Near North Bend, Ohio, the old Harrison

Polk and Livingston will speak at several other points in the state.

Chairman Eaves, of the republican state executive committee, today arrived here to establish his headquarters for the campaign. few yards from the white shaft that marks the tomb of his illustrious ancestor, President William Henry Harrison.

William Heury Harrison.

The occasion was not one for words, and as the president passed to the rear platform, he was unaccompanied by the rest of the party, who delicately-left him to the solemn memories that the scenes called forth.

After a brief stop, the train passed on but the president was visibly affected by the sights that brought so many tender memories to his mind, and when the little town of Lawrenceburg was reached, his voice was heavy with emotion as he addressed a-crowd of old neighbors and friends that thronged to greet him.

THE FRESIDENT'S SPEECH. dred Thousand Acres.

Raletch, N. C., October 7.—[Special.]—The state board of education met today and received a proposition to buy swamp lands in Hyde county, known as Hyde park, and centaining almost 100,000 acres. The lands were taken twenty years ago by a company of northern capitalists, which failed, and they reverted to the board. The proposition to purchase is made by the Wilmington, N. C., improvement company, which offers 45 cents per acre. The board will probably accept the offer, and sixty days have been given to examine into questions as to the title. Charles M. Stedman, of Wilmington, has for some time held an option on these lands. Governor Fowle and State Engineer Lewis left today to inspect the swamp lands near Newberne. THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

"My friends," said the president, "I want to thank you very cordially for this greeting. All the scenes about here are very familiar to me. This town of Lawrenceburg is the first All the scenes about here are very familiar to me. This town of Lawrenceburg is the first village of my childish recollections and as I approached it this morning, past the earlier home of my recollections—the home in which my childhood and early manhood were spent—memories crowded in upon me that are very full of interest, very full of pleasure, and yet very full of sadness. They bring back to me those who once made the old home very dear; the most precious spot on earth. I have passed, with bowed head, the place where they rest. We are here in our generation with the works of those who have gone before upon us. Let us see, each of us, that in the family, in the neighborhood and in the state, we do at least, with equal courage and grace, and kindness, the work which was so bravely, kindly and graciously done by those who filled our places fifty years ago. Now—for I must hurry on—to those old friends, and to these new friends, who have come in since Lawreneburg was familiar to me, I extend again my hearty thanks for this welcome, and beg in parting to introduce the only member of my cabinet who accompanied me—General Tracy, secretary of the navy."

Secretary Tracy merely bowed to the enthusiastic crowd and the train pulled out as the union of the survivors of the battle of Fort Saunders opened here this morning. It is really a reunion of the blue and the gray. The streets are crowded with strangers. Every house in the city is wide open for guests. General Richmond and many prominent men are here. The New York Highlanders are very strongly represented, and there are many from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Pennsylvania, and Georgia, Alabama, Virginia, Kentaray and Texas regiments.

Every state in the union is represented. Many receptions have been held today and tonight. the navy."

Secretary Tracy merely bowed to the enthusiastic crowd and the train pulled out as the president and secretary were shaking hands with those nearest them.

Large crowds were at Milan and Osgood, and cheered as the train sped by.

Catchings Will Have a Walkover.

GREENVILLE, Miss., October 7.—[Special.]
The republican congressional convention for this, the third district, met here today, and nominated James H. Hill (colored) for congress. Hill was nominated two years ago, and contested the seat of General Catchings, our present member, but was not successful in unseating General Catchings. The delegates present represented ten counties of the district. All were colored but one, Ajas Courtwright, postmaster at Rolling Fork. The only opposition to Hill's nomination was from Warren county, who voted for G. G. Gales. General Catchings will have a walkover in his election in this district. CROWDS ALL ALONG THE LINE. At North Vernon the crowds would be satisfied with nothing less than a speech from the president, and he was obliged to give a few words in acknowledgment of their repeated cheers. He merely expressed his thanks and the pleasure he felt to see his Indiana friends. Three cheers and a tiger were given for the Seymour gave a rousing evidence of Harrison's popularity in that little town, and after he had introduced Secretary Tracy, the presi dent said:

"I feel that I ought to thank my friends for our friendly greeting this beautiful morning. It is indeed a pleasure to me to greet so many of you, and thanking you for this welcome. I hope you will excuse me from any further speech." HE SPEAKS TO THE CHILDREN.

The population given for St. Paul, by re-enumeration, is only 145 smaller than that at first announced, the difference being due solely to redunification of names by Washington, Ind., October 7.—Just before the train pulled out of Seymour, a note was handed the president, which he hastily perused. "A request has just been handed me." said he, "that I speak a few minutes to the school children here assembled. I scarcely know what to say to them, except that I have great interest in them, and the country has great interest in them. Those who, like myself, have passed the meridian of life, realize more than the younger men that the places have passed the meridian of life, realize more than the younger men that the places we now hold and the responsibility we now carry in society, and in all social and business relations, must devolve upon those who are now in school. Our state has magnificently provided for their education, so that none of them need be ignorant, and I am sure that in these happy homes the fathers and mothers are not neglecting their duties, but are instilling into those young duties, but are instilling into those young minds morality and respect for the law which called upon to pay his acknowledgements to

hands with a host of them. "HOW ARE YE, BEN?"

At Shoals, the president made a speech warmly thanking the cheering Indianians for the cordiality of their welcome.

At Washing on, Ind., a large crowd was assembled and it was quickly demonstrated that the village contained many old friends of the president. An old gray-haired man of four score years and more, elbowed his way sturdily through the crowd to the president and grasping his hand said:.

"How are ye, Ben? I am glad to see ye. I voted for your grandfather, and then voted for you, I hope, Ben, I'll have the chance to vote for you again. You don't mind if I call you Ben?" [Great laughter from the crowd.]

The president assured his visitors that to his old friends he hoped to always remain "Ben," and the crowd loudly applanded the sentiment. This encouraged an old lady to exclaim, as she grasped the president's hand, "I feel as though I am related to you, Mr. President. Your grandfather and mine ate roast turkey and pig together, and that makes us related, does it not?" [Great laughter.]

The president bowed his affirmation to this logic as the train moved rapidly out.

The party reached Vincennes a little before 2 o'clock, and were met by a committee of Terre Haute citizens headed by President W. R. McKeen, of the Vandalia railway, and Hon. Cyrus F. McNutt, one of the democratic leaders of Indiana.

This committee escorted the presidential party to Terre Haute over the Evansville and Terre Haute railway.

party to Terre Haute over the Evansville and Terre Haute railway.

ARRIVED AT TERRE HAUTE.

TRERE HAUTE, Ind., October 7.—At the little town of Sullivan the president was finally forced to make a speech. About half the county was out. "My friends," said the president, "some of you have requested that I would give you a little talk. The range of things that I can say on an occasion like this is very limited, but one thing, though it seems to involve repetition, I can say to you very heartily and very sincerely, I am very glad again to look into the faces of my Indiana friends. I trust I have friends that are not in Indiana, but my earliest and my best are here. Again I thank you." [Cheers.]

In this city a stand had been erected and beautifully decorated in honor of the president's coming, and fully 10,000 peeple were assembled. The president's fapproach was signaled by deafening whistles from engines and factories.

When the party finally reached the stand it was fully ten minutes before the thousands of cheering hoosiers could be calmed sufficient to allow the ceremonies to begin. Mayor Frank Daniels then welcomed the president to the city and introduced him to the audience.

In his speech, the president, after expressing his hearty appreciation of the welcome extended and the interest he had, for more than thirty years, taken in the city's growth and progress, said:

"I was told as I approached your city, that there was not an idle wheel in Terre Haute. It is very pleasant to know that this prosperity is so generally shared by all our people. Hopefulness and cheer and courage tend to bring and maintain good times. We differ widely in our views on public politics, but I trust every one of us is devoted to the flag which represents the unity and power of our country, and to the best interests of the people, as we are given to see, and understand these interests. [Applause.] We are in the enjoyment of the most perfect system of government that has ever been devised for the uso of men. We are under fewer restraints, individual faculties and liberties have a wider range here than in any other land. Here the sky of hope is arched over the head of every ambitious, industrious and aspiring young man. There are no social conditions. There are no unheeded legal restrictions, and to maintain them in this best development. Let us see that, as far as our inflence can bring it to pass, they are conducted for the general good. [Applause.] It gives me pleasure to bring into your city today one who is the successor, as the head of the navy d secretary of the navy." Secretary Tracy made a brief speech.

A Death Trap Left by Some Workmen or One of the Trestles-How a Disaster Was Averted-General News from Macon.

Macon, Ga., October 7.-[Special.]-Th Central railroad had a narrow escape last night from a very serious accident on its main stem, about two and a half miles from Macon, at the trestle of the Walnut creek bridge. At 11 o'clock a freight train with fifty cars came thundering along towards Macon. The engine and one car cleared the broken place in safety, but the next car was not so fortunat and jumped the track. Immediately the other cars went bumping together and the en tire train got into a twist, something snake like. When the engineer looked back and saw the twisted cars he and his fireman leaped from the engine and rolled down the mbankment which is forty feet high.

The damage to the train was slight. It was miraculous that the engine and carsalid no plunge down the high embankment. Had they done so there would have been loss o life and great wreckage. In the cab of the train were Hon. N. E. Harris, J. Madison Jones and others returning from Wilkinson county. They had to walk to town last night from the scene of the accident.

BESSIE JONES ARRESTED.

The Woman Who Can Tell About the Killing of Charity Crane.

Macon, Ga., October 7.—[Special.]—Bessie Jones, the negro woman who, it is thought, was implicated in the killing of Charity Crane, and fled the city to Pope's Ferry on the morning of the discovery of the body, returned to the city today, on the 8:50 East Tennessee train. It seems that she had been deceived into returning by the assurance that she was only wanted as a witness. On her arrival she was pointed out to Officer Golden, by a sister of Charity Crane. She was arrested and put in jail.

Coroner Henderson had a long talk with her, and he says she told a story that corroborates the statements of others already made. It is said that the crime may be fastened on Turner Solomon, the negro man in jail on suspicion of having committed the deed.

Bessie says she was with Charity Crane and Turner Solomon on Saturday night, and left the deed.

Bessie says she was with Charity Crane and Turner Solomon on Saturday night, and left them about 12 o'clock, quarreling, where Charity's dead body was found Sunday morn-Charity's dead body was found Sunday morning. Bessie left them to go home and before she reached home she heard cries of "Murder, murder, murder," Bessie says the reason she fled from Macon Sunday, was she thought she might be accused of the crime, as she was seen with Charity Saturday night. Certain scratches on Bessie's hands, she says, were caused by picking cotton. It is generally thought Bessie knows more about the murder than she has yet revealed.

IN THE CHIEF'S WAY. A Lively Law Suit May Be the Result of th

Matter.

Macon, Ga., October 7.—[Special.]—This morning there was a small fire in the rear of Bell and Son's factory. While Chief Jones was in his buggy rushing to the fire, a young white boy named Pat Harron, who was driving a dray belonging to Thomas Brown, was in the way of the chief. The chief managed to pass, however, but as he did so he struck the boy a severel lick with his whip. Thomas Brown, the owner of the dray, took the names of several witnesses of the affair, and swore out a warrant before Justice Means against Chief Jones for horsewhipping. Harron is about sixteen years old. It is also said that Chief Jones will make a case against Harron for being in the way of his buggy. The affair has created considerable talk. Matter.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., October 7 .- [Special.]-Edward T. Martin, the young man shot by his sister-in-law yesterday, is rapidly sinking tonight, and it is thought will die before morn-ing. The ball passed through his kidneys, and a surgical operation performed by the physicians last night left him very weak. There is no hope of his recovery.

THE WOMAN'S STATEMENT. Mrs. Clarence D. Martin, who did the shooting, made a long statement today, in which she claims she did not intend to shoot him, but aimed to shoot over his head and frighter him. Mrs. Martin alleges that the man sh shot had caused her husband to leave her, and has had a detective following her for Her visit here, she says, was to get Martin to sign an agreement to let her alone. "I remember her well," he says. "She visited her relations at Eufaula, and captivated everybody by her beauty, by her charming manners and her vivacious spirits. its purpose was to supply the south with well-trained, young physicians, who would reflect credit on the institution where they were educated. Dr. Powell said, further, that the prospects are that there will be more students than there are seats in the building; but he answered that if it becomes necessary, the seating capacity will be doubled, trebled or quadrupled as the exigencies may demand.

Dr. Nicolson's address was practical and to the point. He told the students that he was fully aware of the laborious duties ahead of them, but assurred them that an earnest and unfaltering devotion to their studies would insure its own reward.

After his address the exercises were closed.

The students will meet at the college at 9 o'clock this morning, and the work of the coming term will begin with an addres by Dr. Olmstead, on physiology.

Among his callers was City Controller Dechert, at whose invitation the comte and Duc d' Orleans Tried Everything Without Relief-No Bar visited the city hall and were taken up in the elevator to the unfinished tower of the building which rears its head 300 feet above the side walk. The comte expressed his disappointment at not being able to catch a bird's-eye view ef the city and after remaining on the tower for a few minutes the party descended and were driven to the Pennsylvania railroad station. While standing on the platform Comte d' Hanssonville said that the Comte de Paris was much affected by the warmth and cordiality of this city. The comte, Du d' Orleans and their suite left at 10:40 o'clock on two special cars attached to the Washington express. The following gentlemen ac companied the comte to Washington: eral O. O. Howard. AT THE FEDERAL CAPITAL.

WASHINGTON, October 7 .- The Comte Paris, on his arrival here at 2 o'clock, was met by General Schofield and two aides and driven in the general's carriage to the Arlington hotel. After luncheon, the comte and Duc d'Orleans returned the call on General Schofield, visiting him at the war department. The count then walked out alone to seek the house he lived in when here during the war. He found the city so changed and built up that he could hardly recognize places he knew familiarly twenty-five years ago, but finally located his former quarters on the corner of Ninteenth and I streets, not far from the residence of Secretary Whitney in the last administration, now occupied by Mr. Wanamaker. Dukes d'Orleans and Uzes walked to the capitol, but had to be content with an outside view, as the building was closed. This evening the party was entertained at dinner at the Metropolitan club by General Schofield. After visiting Ard'Orleans returned the call on General Scho club by General Schofield. After visiting Ar-lington cemetery tomorrow the party will go down the Potomac to Norfolk, where they take a boat up the James river.

DOING HONOR TO ROYALTY.

General Lee and Colonel Anderson to Accompany Him. RICHMOND, Va., October 7 .- [Special.]-Colonel Archer Anderson and Captain Phillip Haxall will accompany the Comte del Paris on his visit to the battle fields and, perhaps, General Fitzhugh Lee will also be one of the party. It seems that the comite wrote to General Lee inviting him to come to Richmond and accompany him, but General Lee thinking he would be too busy to leave Glasgow, so informed the comte, but suggested Colonel Anderson as a good person to show him around. The comte then wrote to the colonel, and he accepted the invitation. Colonel Anderson has invited Captain Haxall to be one of the party, and has also written to General Lee.

Liverpool came two to three sixty-fourths up, and weather at the south showed a little im-provement. Our market followed suit, and by wo to three points advance, closing steady at six provement. Our market followed suit, and by noon a pretty smart advance had been made. Then the market relapsed into duliness, and under some selling to realize there was a momentary weakness, especially on the 2 o'clock p. m. call. But the bulls railled, and the close was at about the best figures of the day. Reports advised heavy rains in the south, and indicated that generally dry, warm weather is needed. Private dispatches from Texas said: Bad weather checks receipts, but arrivals at the ports are rather in excess of estimates. Spot cotton is firm, and much more active for home consumption.

THE CAMPAIGN IS RED HOT.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., October 7 .- [Special.] This has been Everett's day in Cartersville, and a great day it was for him and his friends.

The day had been fixed by him to meet his triends of Bartow county, and discuss before them the issues of the heated campaign for ingress in the seven h district. The alliance people of the county decided to have a great day of it. They arranged to have the speaking in the grove by the courthouse, and to have a feast in the way of a great basket dinner. The rain, however, which began early in the morning and continued ntil 10 o'clock, conflicted with the plans, and the speaking took place in the courthouse.

The Preliminary Arrangements. At 9 o'clock Mr. Everett arrived on the rain from Rome, and with him came Major Zach Hargrove, the republican candidate for congress, who claimed that it was his day in Cartersville also. Soon after this, Colonel D. B. Hamilton, of Rome, appeared and sked that he be allowed to speak for Dr.

Colonel T. Warren Akin, chairman of the mittee on arrangement, communicated to each of these gentleman a willingness to grant em the privilege of speaking, and arranged with them the programme of speeches. According to this agreement Mr. Everett was to lead off with a forty-five-minute speech, Major Hargrove to follow with a thirty-minute speech, and Colonel Hamilton to have the same privilege to talk for Dr. Felton, and the day to close with a reply from Mr. Everett in whatever manner he might choose. The Speaking Begins.

Under full agreement to these arrangements the speaking began promptly at 11 o'clock. The courthouse was literally packed with men representing every profession and pursuit, and especially were the farmers out in great numbers. It was remarkable that the rain had not kept more of them at home than

Colonel Akin took the speaker's stand and nounced the conditions upon which the program of speeches would proceed in accordance with the arrangement agreed upon among the candidates. He stated that it was Mr. Everett's appointment, but that the committee didn't wish to be personally discourteous to any one and, consequently had given the others a fair showing. He said that Hon. Seaborn Wright, of Rome, might arrive at 1 o'clock to conclude the speaking in Mr. Ever-

"And now, fellow citizens," he concluded. "I have the honor to present to you the nominee of the democratic party of the seventh congressional district of Georgia, the Hon. R. W. Everett, of the county of Polk."

There was much cheering in the hall when

Mr. Everett took the stand, and said: "Fellow Citizens: For your presence and your manifestation of enthusiasm here day I am profoundly grateful. am always glad to meet people who are glad to hear a fair discussion of public issues, without unjust prejudice, and with no malice for others. And right in this connection I want to set myself aright concerning language quoted from my Rome speech in the public prints. A certain paper says that while attempting a defense for having supported Dr. Felton in the past, I used these words: 'I ostracize myself by supporting Dr. Felton, and now his former opponents can take up the old devil of us all and worship him.'

"I want to say, my fellow-citizens, emphatically, tha I do not recollect saying it. If I did say it, which I am unwilling to grant-if in the heat of debate I have made use of such an expression, then, here in the presence of you all, and with all the well meaning of my heart, I retract it. I want it distinctly unde stood that I have no mud-slinging to do today. Sarcasm and irony don't count in a dignified campaign, and mud-slinging is far beneath the position I claim to hold."

Mr. Everett went into a discussion of the situation of the alliance and politics, saying that for the first time since the war the farmers were in a way to exercise a mighty power be-hind the throne, and he didn't wonder that the politicians were disgruntled.

"Why," said he, "the men who have been electing officers this year are the same men who have been electing them all the time, the only difference being that they are organized, and hence the more powerful now. If they were right in the past years, how can you say they are wrong now Now this whole fight seems to be against the Farmers' Alliance, and why? Why? Oh, my countrymen, the whole trouble comes from Floyd county and from Rome. They are hav ing some little local grievances up there and ey are at outs with the world. [Laughter.] But in the name of common sense I protest that Floyd county ought to fight her little family affairs out at home. [Laughter and applause.] I see clearly through this business and so do the voters of this district.

"Now, Dr. Felton said in his Marietta speech: 'What does this alliance mean? It s nothing more than a war of proscription. Just think of it! What would the farmers products be without the aid of the merchant, the manufacturers' spindles, the hum of machinery, etc.' Now, I ask what has the alliance done to merit this slander and abuse? "Show to me one busy spindle that has been hushed by the secret vows of the Farmers' Alliance; bring before me one deed of a single farmer done while consulting his brother farmers through the blessed, privilege of this alliance that would write him down a proscriptionist. We are not proscriptionists, and landerers. [Applause.]

"Ah, when did the scales fall from his eyes?

"What high priest has laid his hands upon him. How did his sympathies run when I was canvassing here once before? Proscriptionists, forsooth! I ask Dr. Felton how he voted in the last election for representatives in this county, and already I am told he voted the proscriptionist ticket, having east his ballot for the alliance candidates." [Great laughter and applause among the farmers.] Mr. Everett read several extracts from Dr. Felton's Marietta speech, and criticised them with a stinging style. He disclaimed ever having gotten a nickel as salary from the allince, and rebuked Dr. Felton's charge that he had been in office which gave him a good sal-He spoke about his candidacy as the legiti-light of dark lanterns, but at the democratic polling places in the fair sunlight of heaven.

On the other side, he said Dr. Felton had been forced in by three votes in Murray county for delegates to be sent to the so-called Jeffersonian convention at Rome, and six or seven in the other counties, and only as high as thirty-two in Polk, during court week, at that.

"We have had promises from politicians till we are sick of them in the matter of reforming the tariff, and yet we have the most iniquitous tariff laws ever known to history. The promises and their preaching remind one of the old deacon who took on too much corn whisky and went to church. He sat by the stove until he got dead drunk, and when the preacher asked some good brother to take him out of the church, the old man said when out from the sacred roof that he was sick and that such preaching as he had been hearing would make a dog sick. [Laughter.] We are sick and tired of the politicians and we will have a change." Mr. Everett's speech was a great hit and a prolonged spell of applause followed it.

Zach Hargrove's Turn. Mr. Warren Akin next introduced Major Zack Hargrove, the republican candidate, to Major Hargrove said he had come as a republican candidate to speak to the people of Bartow in strictly a republican line. He said he was fighting nobody, and would be disappointed if either of the other candidates fought him else than as a party man.

He paid a pretty eulogy to Dr. Felton, which was received with loud applause, and then commended Mr. Everett in an equally culogistic manner which likewise brought down the house, and this test of the sense of the meeting by the applause for both sides awakened both Felton and Everett men with renewed interest.

"This fight among the democrats reminds me of the monkey and parrot story," said Mr. Hargrove, "and, in the words of the parrot, they are having a 'hell of a row.' I am going to see if I can't settle it for them. [Laughter.] "I am a straight out-and-out republican candidate, just as Mr. Everett is the out-and-out democratic candidate. [Applause.] I believe in the abolishment of the internal revenue in toto. I will urge the making of silver as good as gold in its purchasing capacity. I be-lieve in protection only for protec-tion—not for revenue; I believe the railroads and telegraph lines should be owned by the government, and I believe in the subtreasury plan until a better one is ad-Mr. Hargrove touched up the plan for the government to own the railroads to much extent. He said it was the greatest scheme that ever an organization of men brought out, and showed figures to weight his argument, showing that lower fares and freights could be had. He said he was an allianceman and a Knight of Labor, but wouldn't let that have any influence in his campaign. As to that, he was simply a republican on a republican platform. His speech was plain and to the point, and was cut short by the expiration of his time long before he had finished all that he had to say, Colonel Hamilton's Speech. When Colonel Hamilton was introduced to the crowd by Mr. Akin, the latter said, "I want the friends of Mr. Everett to remember that Felton men may shout for the next thirty minutes, but it will then come their own time

This announcement brought down the house, both Felton and Everett men shouting tumultously.

Colonel Hamilton said: "This three-co nered fight is getting hot to be sure, and I thought I'd come down today to say a word for the old doctor.

"I want to say, my fellow?citizens, in the outset, that Dr. Felton has no knowledge of my presence here today. I have come, however, feeling that I was coming to a circle of old friends and associates of my early childhood, which was spent here. My father used to own the very land upon which the prosperous little city of Cartersthe prosperous little city of Carters-ville is built. Looking about me today at your happy homes, your green lawns and fertile fields, smiling in the promise of a bounteous harvest, I can say that I am glad of your prosperity. I am no office seeker, but have come to reason with you today in matters of great moment, openly and in all of which I am capable. "I am not here to array class against class. That's not my style. I want to see everybody in this world happy, and long for the time when all the world will be levelled like the placid surface of a lake to reflect on its bosom the fair face of heaven itself." [Apllause.]

He went on to say that he was himself a farmer, and had worked in the fields with his sons day after day. He therefore could not fight the farmers in any way. But he said he was a democrat, had never voted anything but the democratic ticket and never would.

"With my record as a domocrat," he con-tinued, "I think it comes with bad grace, indeed, when I am lectured on democracy by certain men.'

Somebody asked Colonel Hamilton how about the time he voted for Felton as an inde-

"I did vote for him, but he has been converted, and is now on the right line-the democratic platform, and the democratic nominee for the next congressional election. [Great Applause, and shouts, "He's a Felton man in a Felton crowd."]

"No. fellow citizens, it's no Felton crowd, no Everett crowd, but fellow citizens all, and as such we are here to talk today. What are the first principles of democracy? Note, how Everett avoided them, and note how bravely little Zack Hargrove has faced the music and told his republican platform. [Applause.] Colonel Everett dodged the subtreasury as clear as a sunbeam.

"Now, Zack's got a book in his pocketlittle alliance book—giving the proceedings of the convention that puts out this subtreasury scheme. Give me that book, Zack." Here Colonel Hamilton turned to Major Hargrove and demanded several times to see the book, while the crowd shouted, "Give him the book!" Colonel Hamilton read the names of some of the alliancemen who pledged their allegiance to the bill, "influenced by party caucus," or

Major Hargrove: "Yes, Colonel Hamilton, but didn't you vote for Northern and others who stand in the same boat, and whose names are on that list, if you could but see it?"
When silence was restored Colonel Hamilton proceeded by acknowledging that he voted for Northen and others, and continued his speech undaunted by the little disturbance. He made a good speech, and the applause that followed indicated that there were Felton men, and lots of them, in the hall. During his speech Colonel Hamilton entered upon a great eulogy upon General John B. Gordon, relevant to his fight for the senate, but was stopped short by some farmer remark-ing aloud, "We are not here to elect senators

Hon. Seaborn Wright. Mr. Akin, in his remarks introducing Hon. Seaborn Wright, of Rome, who came to speak on Mr. Everett's side, said: "Let us now hear the man who is the young mate outcome of the democratic proceedings, saying that the district executive committee, which first met in Dalton, ordered the counties to act, and they had acted not in the mysterious lodgerooms of suballiances, by the

Wright, of the county of Floyd. [Great ap-

Mr. Wright said he did not go out of the correct purpose of his speech to say in the very outset that it was painful for him to sever even old alliances.

"I want to say," said he, "that my heart beats as warmly for the old docter as it ever did in days gone by. It is not the dector, my friend, that is so objectional in this campaign, but it is the company he keeps. He's got into naughty, bad company. [Laughter.]
"Did you ever hear the old doctor talk about the Yearling Club, of Rome? Well, Brother Hamilton was high cocklilorum of that famous organization. They tell you today, with all the rebuke and ridicule that cunning tongues can utilize, that Mr. Everett is the candidate of a dark-lantern party. That he has been put out by the alliance. What if he has been put out by the alliance. What if he has? Why God bless your souls, fellow-citizens, hadn't you rather be endorsed by the [Continued laughter.] "That Rome meeting was a queer mixture, wasn't it? [Laughter.] A farmer was president, another was secretary, and the whole thing was run by a few old city politicians whose power in Rome has been felt for years alliance than by the Rome Yearling Club?

"Oh, mark you, my friends, with what rotten stuff they seek to conceal their independentism! [Applause.]

"I honor a man who pastes his politics in his hat and lives up to them openly to the world. When I was an independent, I was an independent openly, because it was my honest political creed, upon which my political faith

"But I want to say to you here and now, in the language of plainness, of soberness and of truth, that the alliance of this district has been vilely slandered. There are no truer democrats in this sweet land of liberty today than the alliancemen." Zack Hargrove a democrat?" some one asked.] "No, but he is better than many of the nugwumps that claim it," was the quick reply, "and I honor the grit of little Zach, who has arisen on this stand today, wrapping the mantle of his party about him and saying to the world, I am a republican to the ore." [Tremendous applause.]

Mr. Wright continued in his happy way, carrying the crowd with him, until every sentence that fell from his lips brought cheer after cheer for Everett, and the Felton men grew strangely silent or left the hall. Mr. Wright talked at length on the sub-treasury bill, showing its feasibility and its constitutionality. He showed up the present system of national banks in a way that brought out loud shouts of condemnation from the multitude on the present money system.

His humor and wit kept alive the nterest in his logical discourse, and when he finished his speech with a perfect shower of eloquence, the crowd rushed forward in a grand ovation to him and Mr. Everett, who was still on the stand.

In the midst of it all, Mr. Akin called upon those who favored Mr. Everett's candidacy to say aye, and there was a thunder of voices to respond. For several minutes Mr. Everett stood on the stand and shook the hands of hundreds of his alliance friends who came up to pledge their support to him and congratulate him on his successful day at Cartersville.

It is hard to form any idea of the result of the election in Bartow at present. friends of both Colonel Everett and Dr. Felton claim it by a large majority.

Dr. Felton will speak in Dalton today, and Colonel Everett and Major Hargrove will be in Marietta. The campaign in the seventh is warming livelier every day, and the fun is not ended yet by any means, REMSEN CRAWFORD.

Mrs. Felton Replies to Mr. John Sibley
AT HOME, Bartow County Ga., October 6.—Editor Constitution: Please say to Mr. Sibley, that Dr. Felton will will reply to his questions about the subtreasury when he reaches Cobb county on his next round of appointments. He will tell him why all the prudent people of this republic prefer to issue currency on gold and silver, rather than on musty wheat and oats and rotten potatoes. He must be patient until he gets to him, and then he will hear, and all other persons may hear that the Farmers' Alliance will permit to exercise a farm. er's privilege by coming out to Dr. Fel-ton's appointments. Unless they are serfs, not

Farmers' Alliance will permit to exercise a farmer's privilege by coming out to Dr. Felton's appointments. Unless they are serfs, not freemen, they will do it.

As Mr. Sibley is impatient and demands a reply to certian definite questions that I can answer, I will endeavor to ease his anxiety.

When Mr. Sibley began his race for the legislature, Dr. Felton did not go into the newspapers to inquire if he was a pauper or depending on polities for a living. Mr. Sibley however asks the following question and demands an explicit answer: "Would you have now more than a living if you had not enjoyed a congressman's salar?" Allow me to say Dr. Felton was not a pauper when he was elected to congress fifteen years ago, and he is not a pauper today. His forefathers made their living on the farm—died as they lived, plain Georgia farmers, and they had no bloated bank account to divide with their heirs, or vast possessions in city property to leave them. They made their money in the simple way that farmers usually do, and Dr. Felton is perhaps quite a poor man, compared to Mr. Sibley. Will that do for an answer?

Mr. Sibley is not consistent as an alliance farmer, but went to Atlanta and produced affidavits to overwhelm Mr. Corput in Floyd county. He now berates Dr. Felton because Floyd voters refused to elect a man that Mr. Sibley pronounced unworthy and unclean in all the Georgia newspapers. Mr. Corput sought vindication and Mr. Sibley, desired endorsement of this attack on Mr. Corput. Strange to say, Mr. Sibley squeezed in, by one vote, and Mr. Corput only falled by an average majority. Now Mr. Sibley proposes to placate Mr. Corput by abusing Dr. Felton. Why does he not stand up to his affidavits, which he furnished to the people of Floyd county?

Mr. Everett is now Mr. Sibley's effidavits in the Georgia State Alliance after Mr. Everett's friends had used them saccessfully to defeat Mr. Corput in this district for congress! Was there ever such a mess of trickery and hypocrisy? Both these alliance candidates united to destr were selected to fill Mr. Dempsey's place as a candidate?

Was there a published call for the democrate of Cobb to assemble in Marietta or anywhere, and select a successor to Mr. Dempsey as a democratic candidate? If so, please reprint it.
How did you, Mr. Sibley, get on the track? Were you the heir apparent of Mr. Dempsey? Did you claim under the law of inheritance?
Did you not go before the people as an alliance candidate, without a nomination from any other party, and did you not antagonize all the pracedents and former methods of democratic primaries in thus becoming a candidate for the legislature, less than thirty-six hours before you were to be voted for at the general election?
Were you not nominated in secret session, by suballiances, as an alliance candidate pure and simple? Do you now propose to rise up and denounce a man who was nominated after a proper call in broad, open daylight, by twelve democratic counties in this district?
Dr. Felton has served this district six years in congress and six years in the egislature. He did valiant work in Washington to restore the silver counties in this district?

Dr. Felton has served this district six years in congress and six years in the legislature. He did valiant work in Washington to restore the silver dollar and enlarge the currency system of this country. He lead the fight for free quinine, and stood squarely to these southern states in every measure of financial and material interest. These facts are unquestioned—matter of public record!

In the legislature he has done a work for Georgia, in the matter of the State road lease, that will live long after his faithful heart has ceased to beat. He drew his pay as a legislator—mileage and per diem—according to law, which he returned to the taxpayers in a lease of the State road which will bring, as rental, into the treasury of the state nearly $13,000,000 within twenty-nine years. He stood like a stone wall to preserve the rights of the railroad commission to the people of Georgia—their bulwark against the encroachments of monopoly and oppression. He proved himself the farmer's friend.

These are facts known to all Georgians, and yet Mr. Sibley, who has yet to make his debut in the logislature, comes out in an unprovoked attack upon this faithful public servant, seeking to injure him before the people of the sate—indirectly charging a misnes of his salary as congressman. Au revoir, Mr. Sibley!

Miss. W. H. Frixox.

The New Tariff Bill.

The McKinley tariff bill, which went into effect last Monday, is the most mischievous piece of legislation that has ever been enacted in this country. Considering its motives-the purposes for which it was enacted-it is the most infamous.

There was a time when THE CONSTI-TUTION, together with a great many southern people, believed that the cry for tariff reform might be carried too far toward free trade for the interest of the young and growing industries of the south. It was a belief based on the idea that as the industries of the north had been built up to some extent by protection, a reasonable amount applied to southern industries would not be out of place.

It was a fond belief, but it has been cured by this infamous measure. Hereafter the whole south must stand to gether in favor of a reform of the tariff that shall be as extreme in the direction of removing from the people and from all business interests the burdens of tariff taxation as this McKinley law is in the direction of imposing them.

This must be the issue. The new tariff law is in the highest degree sectional. It is an attack on the prosperity of the farmers and other tax payers of the south. It is an attack on the farmers and people of the west. It is class legislation of the most iniquitous sort-s robbery of the people for the benefit of the monopolies and trusts who are expected, in return, to swell the Quay corruption fund to such proportions that the honesty of this country cannnot prevail against it.

It is an issue on which the south must present a solid and invincible front. Fortunately it is an issue that has no other matters to embarrass it. It is free from the heavy and deadening influence of the negro question. It stands by itself, and the farmers of the west, who are not willing to be robbed by the followers of Quay for the benefit of the trusts and monopolies, must take their place with the solid south in the campaign that is to be made. It must be an indignant campaign-a campaign in which the hearts of the tax-paving classes of this country must be inflamed with a high and just wrath against those who have placed this inic burden upon them.

In the stress and despair of a tremendous war the tariff against which Mr. Cleveland and the democratic party justly made complaint was thought to be high enough and burdensome enough to meet the demands of a desperate situation; but here and now, in a time of profound peace, and in the midst of the greatest prosperity, especially in the industrial lines, the republican party largely adds to the burdens of taxation that are already oppressing the farmers and the rest of the people who earn their bread by the toil of their hands.

No infamy of oppression could exceed this in a republic like ours, and it paves the way for a campaign of freedom that shall sweep away this corrupt organization which crushes the people with taxation in order that the monopo lies, and trusts, and millionaire manufacturers may grow richer still. It paves the way for a campaign that will sweep the country like wildfire, culminating in a reform of the tariff and a lifting of the burdens of taxation that shall be far-reaching and complete.

Insane Jealousy.

Those who are regular readers of the daily papers have doubtless noticed a tendency ong rejected lovers to resort to violence when their proposals of marriage are no accepted. It is not due to climatic infin ences, as one of the most brutal murders of this character recently occurred in New Jersey, quickly followed by one equally as atrocious at St. Augustine, Fla. It was no due, therefore, to the hot blood of the south erner in the Land of Flowers, nor the cold blood of the usually methodical and sys tematic yankee.

It may be possible that the seed sown by Tolstoi in such dangerous novels as the "Kreutzer Sonata" is bearing fruit and that this morbid state of insanity that is taking possession of the minds of some of the re jected lovers in this country can be laid at the door of sensational novel writers.

In New Jersey a young lady rejected one lover and married his rival. The rejected suitor sought an interview with the bride for some days, and it was always refused, until finally the husband consented for a few moments' conversation in the flower yard. While the interview was going on the husband sat at a window with a Winchester rifle in his hand, and a bead drawn upon the disappointed lover, so that if he made any astration he could protect his wife, He finally decided to have the interview ended, and started to the garden for that purpose, but before he could reach his wife's side the infatuated lover had shot her dead. The second tragedy, at St. Augustine, was caused by Miss Mamie Joseph's refusal to narry Alexander Campbell, a bookkeeper of that city. Miss Joseph was one of the most beautiful and popular young ladies in society. Campbell called at the residence, and, as Miss Joseph entered the parlor, drew his revolver and shot her. Miss Joseph ran into the yard, where she was followed by Campbell, who fired four more shots, two of which took effect, causing instant death. Campbell attempted to shoot himself, but was prevented and lodged in jail.

Another case of the same kind is reported from Concord campmeeting in Forsyth county, this state. William Hudlow stabbed young lady while she was going from the arbor to the tent in company with a young man. Hudlow fled, but was captured after quite a struggle, during which he used his knife freely on Mr. Henry Moore. The young lady had refused the attentions of Hudlow, which brought down his insane wrath upon her. Jealousy is blind and love is sometimes unreasonable, but if any killing is to be done we heartily commend the example of a lover who recently committed suicide at Richmond, Va. Before firing the fatal bullet into his diseased brain he bequeathed to his betrothed one-third of his estate, which was valued at $75,000, in the following language: "To Miss Nellie McCan Rogers: May God bless her is my sincere prayer."

If there is any killing to be done, let the pistol be pointed in the right direction, and the world will be the gainer instead of the loser, as heretofore.

The Proposed Charter Amendment, In opposing the proposition to change the charter of the city so as to render the mayor, council and aldermen eligible for a second consecutive term. THE CONSTITUTION had in mind the splendid administration of Mayor Glenn, than which the city has never had a better one. We further knew that Mayor Glenn had announced that, even if the law were changed, he would not allow the use of his name for re-election.

If the city could be assured that all of its mayors would make such records as that of Mayor Glenn, or that the aldermen and councilmen of the future would be such as compose the present boards, there might be no complaint at the proposed change.

But no such assurance can be given, and until it is, the law had best stand where it is. As for Mayor Glenn, his record as mayor of Atlanta is written too conspicuously to let him rest from official life for long. There is work for him ahead.

The New York Central's Decree. The order which was issued recently by the New York Central, which is to the effect that hereafter no persons who belonged to the order known as Knights of Labor, would be employed by the road, is of general public interest. It is, of course, mainly due to the recent strike on that road and the attempts at train-wrecking which followed the strike. The latter is, we believe, the excuse which the company offers for its action.

The New York Central has a perfect right to pick and choose its employes, and it can boycott the Knights of Labor if it is able to lo so; but can it accomplish this end with justice to itself, the men against whom its boycott is directed and the public at large? And how does the statement of Vice-President Webb, made during the strike, compare with the company's action in declaring war against the Knights of Labor now? At that time he said that no men had been discharged because they belonged to the Knights of Labor, and now he proposes to discharge all of them "because the management does not desire to employ men who are members of the order known as the Knights

The New York Central evidently knows its own business, and is able to take care of itself, but whatever offenses the Knights of Labor have been guilty of in the past, we do not believe that they deserve this wholesale boycott which, while it may inconvenience many of them for a time, will eventually react against the road in some way, if it does not prejudice public sentiment and cripple its business. It is, however, impossible to predict with any degree of accuracy the results of this arbitrary decree of the New York Central managers. It is another fight of capital against labor, and in this instance labor is on the defensive and will probably have the sympathy of the public. We are of opinion that the New York Central, backed by all of its money and influence, has taken a big contract, which it will hardly carry out to the satisfaction of its stockholders, and we think this fact will be clearly demonstrated #### before the fight is ended.

An Appeal to the Veterans. The republican canvass for votes is being vigorously pushed in different states. Es pecially in this the case in the west, and some of the features of this canvass are really amusing. In Nebraska, for instance, the republican committees have appealed to the republican committees have appealed to the old soldiers, in the following language: We address you as an old soldier, knowing that you have proven in the past your fidelity to country and good government. The republicans in the present session of congress have passed a pension measure which will afford relief to 300,000 soldiers in addition to those now receiving pensions from the government. Eighty thousand pensions from the government. Eighty thousand additional widows and orphans will also be assisted by the legislation mentioned. Whateverelief in the shape of additional legislation for ol relief in the shape of additional legislation for old soldiers we can expect only from a republican congress. Will you assist us in November to return from Nebraska three republican members of the house of representatives? Believing that you will do this, and that you will use your best effort to have your friehds do the same, we would like to receive any suggestions from you as to the situation in your locality.

It will be seen from the above that th ension appropriations made by Mr Harrison's congress were not the result of patriot ism or gratitude to these old soldiers, but a bid pure and simple for their votes. The republican party has made great capital out of them, and is now masquerading before the old soldiers as their friend. The party lemands interest on the money they have received; in other words, it enters the conssional fight in the states with the idea that it has paid in advance for the votes of union veterans and that the latter, from gratitude alone, should vote the republican

It is not likely, however, that these veterans will be deceived, or that they will be willing to occupy the position in which the republican party seek to place them before the country; they have not sold their votes for a mess of pottage—or if they have, are not the men we take them for. If they are to pay for their pensions with their votes they will belong to the republican party, to do its bidding against all sense of right and at the sacrifice of personal liberty. There is one thing that the republican committee have overlooked in getting up these campaign circulars: They should have incorporated a condensed history of the pension bureau in them, with a picture of Green B. Raum in the center. There is no elling what a happy effect this would have

Mr. Harrison as a Reporter.

It is understood that the trip which Mr. Benjamin Harrison is making to the west is to be in the nature of a tour for the purpose of finding out the sentiments of the peopl of that section with respect to the force bill. It is well known that Mr. Lodge's meas ure is very dear to Mr. Harrison's heart. and that he made a statement some time ago that if the senate failed to pass it he would call an extra session of congress in November for the purpose of driving the bill through. Something or other in the atmosphere caused him to hesitate about this. Being, however, an essentially small and narrow minded man, he cannot believe what he sees in the western republican organs in regard to the sentiments of the people of that section, and so he is going to see about the matter himself in the capacity of a reporter for Quay's White House Gazette.

We do not see, however, how the reportorial trip of Mr. Harrison will help him any, for by the time he returns to Washington and gives thirty days' notice for an extra session of congress, it will be about time for the new congress to meet.

The Bill Is Working.

The McKinley bill is having a visible effect upon the business of the country already. Among other newspapers The Kansas City Star invites public attention to its workings in that section. The proprietors of one of the largest and best known dry goods houses in the west say in their advertisement: "The McKinley bill will have its effect on the market; the difference has already begun to show itself. By and by the tidal wave will reach us and then you. Importers and manufacturers are wiring all over the country to their agents to advance prices."

Our contemporary calls attention to the fact that there is no politics in the business announcements of a house like the one referred to above. "They have the reputation of telling the truth and representing things just as they are. They warn their customers that they can sell at lower rates the goods which they themselves bought before the passage of the McKinley bill, than they can sell the goods purchased after that bill goes into effect."

These are facts-facts which Mr. Blaine foresaw when he witnessed the signature which made the bill a law, and asked the president if he could write his name without trembling. They are facts against which it is useless to protest now, but they show the true attitude of the republican party to the people of this country.

The McKinley bill was passed "in the interest of the people," they said. How far the people will be benefited by it will be seen from the solitary instance mentioned above. And the end is not yet.

THERE IS a great deal of ill-concealed hunor in the statement of a northern exchange to the effect that the speech of Bob Kenned is still troubling the republicans. The repub licans have got to carry Quay, and they are doing it with a broad, vigorous, pious John Wanamaker smile.

QUAY WOULD be a great conspirator if his tools would only burn the letters they write

THE REPUBLICANS—especially the devout ones—are beginning to find out that Quay's policy of silence is a campaign within itself.

IT WILL be discovered later in the seaso that the McKinley tariff law is quite as sectional as the force bill would have been. The republican theory is that southern prosperity THERE is much more elasticity than mean ng in the beautiful word "Jeffersonian," iwhen it can be made to cover the policy of men who desire to rush from the democratic party into the bosom of the negro party.

Those who are opposed to democratic nom-nees should have made that fact known dur ing the contest for the nominations. Oppos tion now is the next thing to republicanism. EDITORIAL COMMENT,

THUS, AFTER the passage of the iniquitous tarifi bill, speaks Rutherford B. Hayes: "I cannot find words to express my regret at the passage of the McKinley bill. It is ruinous to our best interests and it will do an indefinite amount of harm. I and it will do an indennite amount of narm. I cannot understand how public men can be so blind to the interests of the country at large as to pass such a bill. It is the most terrible blow that has been struck at the republican party during its existence. I can only say that I hope such a policy will die out soon; but I cannot shut my eyes to the evil that will be done before such protection as this finds a grave."

THE CONSTITUTION'S stand in opposition to the two-term bill, introduced by Councilman Hirsch at Monday's meeting of that body, was the subject of general comment yesterday, on all sides THE CONSTITUTION s heartily endorsed. The general that it is best to The feeling ough alone, and do nothing that may pave the way for Atlanta to lose the proud istinction of being the best governed city in the country.

But Councilman Hirsch warmly advocates

his measure. "That was introduced, says in explanation, "not for the benefit of any one man, or any set of men. I have heard it said that the act was drawn for the benefit of Mayor Glenn. That is not so. I have had it in mind for twelve months, or more, and I advocate the change because I consider it right and proper.' Then Mr. Hirsch continued: "What was good law in 1874 is not necessarily good law w. The conditions have changed. Now the good citizens of Atlanta have undoubted control of affairs and there is no need, in my opinion, of a law which was made to fit the mewhat chaotic conditions of those earlier days. There is no officer of the state governwho is not eligible for a second term and if he has proved true to his trust it seems to me the proper thing to give him two terms. The same rule obtains in city governments everywhere, and the people Atlanta should have the right to elect for a second term's service those officers who have proved true to the trust imposed in them. I have sufficient faith in the good people of Atlanta to believe that they would discrimi nate between the good and the bad.

"As to myself, I have but one ambition which is that, after I have finished my service as councilman, I may have the privilege of fin ishing the Grady hospital, and the Home for the ome personal ends to serve in introducing that bill. I will answer that by saying that I have no desire whatever for a second term, and l couldn't have one if I wanted it, for I am about to move from the first ward. ANISTON, Ala., October &.—Editor Constitution: In connection with the candidacy of Captain J. W. Morrow for sheriff of Fulton county, I have been asked in regard to his war record. In a few words, Jim Morrow's record as a gallant and faithful soldier is equal to the best. He left a good position in Memphis and hastened home to Walton county, Georgia, and joined Company H., Eleventh Georgia Regiment, and for gallantry and good conduct, was promoted until he became captain of his company. He was true and faithful to the last, and commanded my skirmish line from Richmond to Appomattox, and when the roll was called Jim Morrow was always present, ready and willing to do and always doing his whole duty, and would have graced the head of a regiment as well as he did old company H, Eleventh Georgia Regiment. I might say much more, butcan say no less of one whom I know so well. Respectfully, George T. Anderson.

ADMONISHES THE FARMERS TO STAND BY THEIR CONVICTIONS.

He Believes the Subtreasury Plan Constitutional and Would Support It-A Letter to the Fulton Alliance.

Gentlemen: I had the honor to receive through you, several days ago, the following resolutions adopted by the executive campaign fecomittee of the Farmers' Alliance of Fulton county.

1. Resolved that a committee of five be appointed to address our fellow-citizen, General L. J. Garriel and request, for publication, his views upon the organization and principles of the Farmers' Alliance of Georgia.

2. His opinion as a lawyer of the constitutionality of the subtreasury bill and whether in his judgment it should be enacted, for the relief of the agricultural interests.

3. Would he support the subtreasury bill as a measure of inancial relief?

It affords me pleasure now that the excitement of the recent election has passed, to respond to your request, and present briefly and candidly my views upon the important ques-

It must be apparent to every observer of passing events that we have at last reached a period in American politics when the toiling millions imperatively demand a radical change in the administrative policy of the government. The great movement inaugurated by the farmers is simply the logical result of laws forced upon the laboring classes by vicious federal legislation. Party platforms have been fertile in suggestions of expeforms have been fertile in suggestions of dients to relieve the people, and promises of reform and retrenchment have greeted the popular ear at each recurring presidential election. But the solemn truth stares the country in the face that for the last quarter of a century "the poor have grown poorer and the rich richer." With a soil and climate peculiarly adapted to agricultural pursuits, it is a lamentable fact that in some portions of our beloved land great poverty prevails. This state of affairs is the result of legislation too often in the interest of monopolies and trusts, at the expense of the poor, and in this contest no patriot—no lover of his race—ought to hesitate in seeking an align-ment with the noble men of toll, who are battling for human progress and the general prosperity of the country. That the interest of the agricultural and laboring classes have been neglected by state It was therefore, not only proper, but right, that It was therefore, not only proper, out right, that the farmers should form an adiance for their own protection and preservation. I regard it, there-fore, as a praiseworthy organization within the folds of the democratic party, that can harm no who wish to prosper by legitimate methods. The assumption that the farmers are not capable of good self-government is wholly unfounded, as observation teaches me that there are no more patriotic or intelligent citizens than the great mass of agriculturalists, who have contributed mass of agriculturalists, who have contributed and are now contributing to the general pros-perity of the whole people. These noble men of toli may truly be classed as the "bone and sinew of the kn4." What would become of our rail-roads, cities, towns, banks, manufacturing interests, but for these honest producers, who labor "in sunshine and in rain." For these and many other reasons that might be stated, I approved and advocated the organization of the Farmers' Alliance from its inception, and now rejoice at the triumph of the great principle of right and justice advocated by its members. These great principles have been incorporated in your platform, published in the press, and may be said to be "known of all men," and are neither undemocratic nor sectional, and, as far as I am informed, have been generally accepted by the people of this state, except the subtreasury bill, which I this state, except the sucressity bill, which a shall allude to hereafter. Composing as you do, a majority of the democracy of this state, it is to be regreted that our democratic friends of the minority should resort to crimination, and it is to be hoped that after the pending election shall have been decided, all mosities will be buried, and alliancemen and anti-alliancemen will march hand in hand and shoulder to shoulder in the grand democratic In answer to your other questions, Libeg leave to state, that as a lawyer, for my own information, and at the request of others, I read, and carefully considered the subtreasury bill several months ago, and freely expressed my opinion at the time, that congress possessed the constitutional power and authority to pass it; and am gratified, that this opinion of its constitutionality has since been confirmed by some of the best legal talent in the state. Entertaining this opinion, and bedieving it to be a great measure of financial relief, for the great distress now prevailing throughout the country. I, of course, would give it my I have seen no better plan sug gested from any source.

A great deal has been written and printed on the subject and it is unnecessary that I should fatigue you by a repetition merely of the many able arguments made in its support. As to its fairness and practicability I have just read the following pointed editorial by the able and intelligent editor of The Southern Alliance Farmer of this date and which I adopt, in which he says:

"To make a currency equal to supply and demand, as to make prices steady, production profitable, business paying, commerce great and vigorous, and the people prosperous and happy. That would not be class legislation or unconstitutional, yet it is practical—and that is the subtreasury bill. I The system that protects the farmer, protects his creditor also, for it enables him to pay his creditor. This, instead of doing good to only one class, does good to all. It is not class legislation when it does that. To help the farmer is to help the farmer is to help that is the subtreasury."

In conclusion, gentlemen, you will pardon me which I adopt, in which he says:

In conclusion, gentlemen, you will pardon me tor saying that as a friend of the great mass of our agricultural and laboring classes, reared amid the scenes of the farm yard, its consecrated asso-ciations will ever be cherished and its memories revived while I live. Be true to your con-victions, be earnest in their advocacy, and place in office those only who have the manhood, our-age and ability to dare maintain your rights and espouse your cause, and very soon a brighter political era will dawn upon this beautiful land of ours. With an earnest desire for the success of your order and the triumph of your principles, I am, with high personal regard, very truly yours,

Sam Jones and Congressman Tillman met and talked about Ben, but neither knew that the latter would also be in the city today.

Sam Jones said to Congressman Tillman:

Neither Ben Tillman|nor George D. Tillman attributes any importance to the Haskell opposition ticket. The former said:

"If they could vote all the anti-Tillmanites on their side, together with the negroes they can get, they couldn't beat me, but half of the antis, or even more, will vote for me, now that I am the duly nominated candidate of the democratic party of South Carolina."

why the title-page of "Marguerite" bore no dedi-cation like all the other famous works written by this author. The reason for this omission was that Mr. White had in his mind an ideal picture of a woman corresponding in all feminine graces with his musical picture of the ideal Marguerite. The matter has been much discussed. The truth of the rumor is strengthened by the fact that recently Mr. Wilkinsonwith his musical picture of the ideal Marguerite. The composer determined that when he met a living woman who should approach his ideal conception, he would dedicate his song to her. During his sojourn in the south, and while stopping at Atlanta, Ga., he caught on the hotel plazza, while hurrying to catch a train, a flecting glimpse of a face and figure which were almost the exact counterpart of his dream. The vision remained with him and wherever he work. Mr. White was arrived at Beauvoir, intending, it is said, to stay for a few days, but he departed by the 4 o'clock train the day he arrived. Y. M. C. A. FIELD DAY AT PIEDMONT PARK YESTERDAY.

The Rainy Weather Interferes, But the ing-An Exhibition at the Gymnasium.

The oft-postponed field-day sports of the Young Men's Christian Association gymnasium were held yesterday afternoon at Piedmont park.

It was an exceedingly unfavorable day, but the entertainments having already been postponed twice, it was determined to carry out the programme notwithstanding the rain. But the field sports were a great success despite all drawbacks. The young athletes, who are personally among the flower of Atlanta's youth, were in fine trim, and all the contests were close and

They have been in active training for quite awhile, and since the first announcement of the field day, much interest has been mani-tested in the event.

Had it not been for the very disagre weather, the Piedmont grand stand and grounds would doubtless have been thronged with spectators. As it was, there was an exceedingly good crowd present to cheer the boys in their manly efforts.

Applause was liberally bestowed upon the contestants in their difficult feats, all of which were performed in such a manner as to great credit upon Professor Whitman, the director of physical culture of the Young Men's Christian Association, who was in charge of the entertain-

Handsome and valuable prizes were given the victors in all the events. They were do-nated by the liberal-spirited merchants of the city, who, recognizing the value of the association, stand ready at all times to give it endorsement and substantial encouragement. The sports were conducted on the race track in front of the grand stand. The ground was very muddy, and this of course proved a detriment to many of the most difficult and interesting feats. Delightful music was discoursed throughout the iprogramme by the Atlanta Zouave band. OFFICERS OF THE DAY. The following officers contributed largely to the success of the day. Professor A. H. Whitman, physical director, was the general head of the entertainment, and he, as well as all the other officers and participants, deserve to be complimented for their excellent management and performance. The committee on physical culture consists of Messrs. W. Woods White, J. Frank Beck, and Arnold Broyles.

AWARDING THE PRIZES.

The prizes were awarded last evening at the gymnasium in the Young Men's Christian Association building.

Mr. L. W. Arnold made the presentation in a very happy manner. The gymnasium was thronged with the young athletes, among whom high enthusiam prevailed over the outcome of the day.

An exhibition is being prepared to be given at the gymnasium on the 31st of this month. This will be fery fine, and many of those who were provented from witnessing the field sports yesterday, will doubtless be present.

Blood Diseases. Blood diseases are terrible on account of their loathsome nature, and the fact that they wreck the constitution so completely unless the proper antidote is applied. B. B. B. (Botanie Blood Balm) is composed of the true antidote for blood poison. Its use never falls to give satisfaction.

Mrs. Laura Hart, Beaufort, S. C., writes: "A loathesome form of blood poison was killing me. My appetite was lost, my bones ached, and parts of my flesh seemed as if it would come off my bones. A friend brought me a bottle of B. B. B. The sores began healing at once, and when I had taken two bottles I surprised my friends at my rapid recovery."

W. A. Buyant, Moody, Toyas writen, "II bad as

W. A. Bryant, Moody, Texas, writes: "I had an agonizing case of salt rheum for four years, which medicine I took only seemed to aggravate until I found B. B. B. It cured my hand, which resembles a burnt surface. It also cured my two children of itch, which had resisted previous treatment."

AT THE OPERA HOUSE

The Grau Opera Company opened to a full house at DeGive's last night.

And the audience was composed of Atlanta's pera-loving people. But they were disappointed. The company is quite strong numerically, but is equally weak musically, and from the rise of the curtain to the final fall the show went slow.

The "Gondoliers" is well known in Atlanta, and it rarely meets with success. It has never been successfully presented since Francis Wilson's work, and since then has proven a failure, both in this country and in Europe. Atlantians are willing to pay for a good show, but when it comes to paying $1.25 for one like that last night they protest. That extra charge met many protests. met many protests.

Having heard much in praise of an ften leads one to overestimate his abi often leads one to overestimate his abilities.

Not so with Frank Mayo. Expecting much, we found that he was as far superior to our ideal of him as our ideal was superior to the common run of actors. The play is not an elaborate one at all, but, like many rior to the common run of actors. The play is not an elaborate one at all, but, like many another play, the genus of one man makes it great, while the lack of it would not carry the piece beyond a first presentation. "Davy Crockett" is unlike any other play we are acquainted with in that it has not a single strong point in itself; and yet it is made one of the most entertaining of representations, simply because a true artist has conceived an ideal of the hero of the play far above and beyond what an ordinary man could have ever dreamed. He has taken a backwoods hunter and given him a nobility of soul and a high type of manliness that commanded the admiration and honor of every one to whom he is introduced. He never loses his identity—never forgets that he is what he is. His heart is great and broad, like the forest he roams; his love pure and simple, like the brock in which he laves; his words full of poetry, but not the poetry of the town; his tones musical as the song of birds and the whispering of summer leaves. Mayo's Crockett is a piece of art as truly as Power's Greek Slave.

Finally, it was agreed that each of the Forsyth county gentlemen should make a speech. Accordingly Ingam mounted a dray body and launched forth in a breezy effusion of unintelligible gibberish, intended to be detrimental to the Pickett cause.

Pistol Shot. Young George Ramspeck died yesterday Young George Ramspeck died yesterday morning at 5 o'clock, at his home in Decatur. His death was the result of a wound accidentally inflicted by a pistol shot, an account of which has already been given. Last Friday he was reloading a pistol, after cleaning it, sitting in his father's store at Decatur, when his thumb slipped from the hammer and a ball was discharged into his abdomen.

The wound was thought to be fatal from the first, but Saturday and Sunday he appeared to be getting along finely and hopes of his recovery were entertained by the physicians in attendance. Monday night he began to sink, however, continuing to weaken rapidly until he died at 5 o'clock.

The funeral will occur this afternoon in Decatur.

A QUEER WILL CASE.

Their married life was unmarred by any shadow until the husband was taken ill in April last and went to the home of his parents, near Norcross. For three weeks the young wife who accompanied him was con-tantly by his bedside, administering to his wants, and doing all that a tender and loving wife could do to soothe him and comfort him in his illness.

But the task was too much for her, and she was taken ill and was compelled to return to her father's home in this city. Two days before his death her husband's family wrote

It is thus evident that so far from sewage mixed with twenty times its volume of water being oxydized during a flow of ten or twelve miles scarcely two-thirds of it would be destroyed in a flow of 16x miles at the rate of one mile an hour, or after the lapse of a week.

"Then further on," continued Mr. McBride,

"I find this:"

We should not take water for the supply of sillages or towns from a river that has been contaminated at all, if it can be helped: that it has never been proved that such water ever gets pure again and at certain times, therefore, very considerable danger may arise from drinking such water.

"Will that give relief?"
"It will give us 2,000,000 gallons in every

DECORATE! DECORATE! EVERY HOME AND EVERY BUSINESS

Should be Covered With Flags and Bunt-ing—Exhibits Still Pouring In—The Exposition Opens Wednesday.

The exposition opens Wednesday. Visitors begin arriving two or three days in advance, and before the crowds come Atlanta should put on her holiday dress to welcome

The exposition directors urge it. Nothing contributes more towards making a favorable impression upon the average visitor. Every home and every business house and every public building in the city should be covered with flags and bunting.

To most visitors, the city itself is almost as much a novelty and as full of interest as the exposition proper.

Flags and fair weather!

With both these, say the directors, the success of the exposition is assured.

And more important of these—the flags. A trifling expense at each home will make a world of difference in the general appearance of the city. The work should begin this morning, and continue until not a building in Atlanta is left without some mark of welcome.

THE MILITARY.

The military parade on the opening day is going to be a very handsome turnout. Every white military company in the city will be out in full force, together with a de-tachment of United States regulars from Fort McPherson.

At the meeting of the exposition directors, last evening, provision was made for the police battalion taking part in the parade. The police are thoroughly equipped and disciplined now, and will present a fine appearance.

EXHIBITS STILL COMING. There are at least two-dozen exhibits entered now for which additional room must be

'Every inch of space is taken in the main hall. Nine exhibitors have been crowded out of the machinery hall, and the agricultural exhibits fit like the bricks in a wall, not an inch of space being left unoccupied.

The exhibits are still coming in every day. Not less than fifty more, it is estimated, will be here before Wednesday morning.
Improvements Everywhere.
Every single department of the exposition will be an improvement over last year.

This is true of the outside features affecting the comfort of the visitors.

Railroad transportation will be cheaper, nicker, and safer than ever before. The rowd this year can't get too large for the ccommodations. The hotel and boarding house arrangements are on a larger and better scale than before.

The ticket system is perfect and there can be no conflict or misunderstanding between the railroad and the exposition. Gun Club Shoot Postponed. The shoot of the Fulton Gun Club, which will be an interesting feature of the exposi-tion, will take place on the 28th and 29th in-stead of the dates heretofore fixed. The indications are that there will be a large attendance of sportsmen from the different cities of the state and that some excellent shooting will be done.

Rev. Mr. Pack, of Wahlala, S. C., filled the West End Baptist pulpit last Sunday.

The matter of paying Gordon street with brick was brought up again before the mayor and council last Monday night, and it was decided to have the work done as soon as the preliminaries can all be arranged. It will make this street the handsomest thoroughfare in or around Atlanta. The only question is, will it last? Most of the citizens along the street are willing to try it in preference to the noisy belgian blocks.

The question of sewers is beginning to be agitated among the people, and some of the council men are seriously thinking of tackling the project, but it seems that a system of waterworks would be in order first, then the sewers. #### FOR FIVE YEARS.

HEFLIN CONVICTED OF PERJURY AND SENTENCED.

The End of a Sensational Case Which Has Become Famous—The Ozburn Case Comes Up Today.

For five years! M. R. Heffin will serve that term in the state penitentiary unless otherwise ordered. Yesterday morning Mr. John Clay Smith concluded the argument for the defense, and it was one of the most masterly efforts of his

At the conclusion of his speech, Solicitor General Hill arose and delivered one of his characteristic speeches in behalf of the state. Mr. Hill brought to bear on the case, not only his own inimitable wit and eloquence, but point after point of evidence. The speech was masterly one. It was nearly 2 o'clock when Judge Richard H. Clark began his charge, which was in accordance with his construction of the evidence. The jury was out only a short time, and brought in a verdict of guilty.

Judge Clark pronounced sentence of five years in the penitentiary.

Counsel for the defense gave notice of a motion for a new trial, and the case will probably go the supreme court. .

This Heflin case has become famous in criminal annals of this county. It was upon the testimony of Heslin and McCord that George Eddleman was acquitted of the murder of Tom . Gresham. McCord was convicted and sent to the penitentiary some time ago, and now Hessin will follow him.

The Ozburn Case. The next case of importance on the calendar is that of the state against C. M. Ozburn, charged with the murder of J. M. Bradley. In May last Ozburn went to Bradley's store at the junction of Forsyth and Whitehall streets, to collect a bill. An altercation ensued, and Ozburn shot Bradley, who fell dead at the corner of his Ozburn claimed that he did the shooting in self-defense, but the coroner's jury, after hearing the evidence, brought in a verdict of murder.

Ozburn was arrested and placed in jail. The case came up in the last term of superior court, but was postponed.

It was set for last Monday, but the Heflin case took up the time, and the Ozburn case will probably be taken up today.

The law requires that 300 copies of the code of 1882 shall be kept in the state library. The librarian counted up yesterday and found only 220 copies. The governor then ordered the purchase of 100 new copies of the code.

A Clayton county convict named Lee Howard was pardoned yesterday by the governor. His crime was larceny from the house. He was convicted upon circumstantial evidence, the principal witness being the prosecutor. This prosecutor himself is now a fugitive from justice, and a worthless character generally, so that there was some doubt of Howard's

There are about twenty counties in Georgia that get more money from the common school fund than they pay into the treasury as taxes. In other words there at least that many counties an expense and a burden to the state.

In the list are Fannin, Gilmer
Baker, Crawford, Columbia, Jones,
Lincoln, Lumpkin, Meriwether, Oglethorpe, Pickens, Rabun, Screven, Taliaferro, Taylor, Towns, Twiggs and Union.

There are at least twenty more that get back just about as much for their common schools as they pay out altogether. They educate their own children, while all other expenses are paid by the wealthier counties.

CITY. this AN EPISODE.

I was born on May 15, 1838, in the village of I was born on May 10, 1838, in the village of Cunardo, Italy. My father, Lorenzo Cardoni, was farmer and upholsterer, and held also the honorable position of sexton of the church of Sant' Abondio, and I, from the time I could crawl, was made to perform such services as my strength and intelligence would permit, so that the largest portion of my boyhood was passed in the church; that, no doubt, accounts for my strong religious attributes at the present time.

Among the services I performed was that of winding up the village clock and ringing the church bells, which were a fire-bells chime. One beautiful summer afternoon I was called to attend a distinguished christening.

By distinguished I mean we were christening a baby which was born with a golden spoon in its mouth—a rare thing in that part of the country. Of course, that being the case, of the country. Of course, that being the case, a plain, every-day christening would not answer the purpose; we had to proclaim the great event by the ringing of church bells, etc.
While so engaged an imperative order was dispatched to us by the vice curate, or assistant pastor, that we should ring alarm bells.

The order was accompanied by the astounding news that 3,000 Croats were marching on the village and at that moment supposed to be but six or eight miles away.

The excitement, confusion and alarm were intense, were terrific.

Poor mothers clutched their children in agoized terror, for the atrocities perpetrated by mense, were terrine.

Poor mothers clutched their children in agonized terror, for the atrocities perpetrated by the savage Austrians at Milan were yet fresh in their minds and hearts, and too vividiy they realized their fate at the hands of the brutal horde, eager for blood and carnage. The cries of terror of helpiess old men and women were heartrending, the scene was horrifying, and none but those who have witnesseed such can form an adequate idea.

Some self-proclaimed leaders gave orders in a wild and incoherent manner. Robust and martial young men, grasping whatever of fiint muskets could be found, or anything that could be utilized to strike the enemy, marched to the front. Some of these young men had already smelled gunpowder, as they had taken part in the historical revolution in Milan.

Those who could not bear arms carried all sorts of missiles to the garrets and house tops,

Those who could not bear arms carried all gorts of missiles to the garrets and house tops, ready to fling on the cursed heads of the enemies of our country and destroy the last vestige of them. A large company of genuine amazons, armed with pitchforks, axes, hatchets—a few had muskets, rusty swords and bayones tied to poles—made, their arrespondent. ones tied to poles—made their appearance.

These were the gatherings of several villages within a radius of a few miles; their aspect was fierce and determined, their threats were loud and wild, and to all likelihood they could have bravely borne a prominent share in the struggle.

Preparations progressed as per magic; nothing but the energy caused by desperation could have produced such results.

I, then ten years old, was one foremost among the braves on that memorable day.

There was in our house an old musket, one which my brother, ten years older than myself.

which my brother, ten years older than myself, and who at that time was serving in the regular army, had brought from Milan.

With all dignity, martiality and patriotism, I shouldered the heavy gun and marched to the front. No amunition of any kind had I, but luckily I did not suspect that it was essential, and my ignorance on the subject was fortunate, for the knowledge of the absence of such requisite might have dampened my ardor and martial spirit. martial spirit.
So I trudged on, followed by a squad of ragamuffins like myself, I acting as corporal.

Who would dare say there was not in me the material for a warrior?

the material for a warrior?

Rataplan, rataplan, we marched to swell the ranks of the defenders of our homes.

Preparations being about completed, we were eager for the fray, and in great palpitation, but the enemy did not appear. The suspense was more trying, more galling, more dangerous than action. Scouts were dispatched to reconnoiter the surrounding country, but no greatly was dispotered.

Reports then began to circulate to the effect that the Austrians were not in so great a force as at first reported, perhaps not over 1,000. This raised a cry of indignation and contempt, for such an insignificant number was not at all enemy was discovered. worthy of our valor and expectation. But our mortification was yet destined to suffer a keener and deeper disappointment, when we were told that the origin of the alarming report was the stump of a tree.

In the uproar and contasion, the final report had not yet reached my ears, and I, still bellicose and boiling ovor with the desire to distinguish myself, was urging on my squad to the attack, then some one who had been informed of the the situation of affairs was imparting the news to the boys. Then the boys all began to laugh and shout:

And the christening? Well, I will leave

"CUNNY," THE GHOUL." He Was a Noted Grave Robber-How Doctor Was Shot. From The Cincinnati Times-Star.

A well-known physician, who has lately retired on the fruits of a successful practice of years, was met a few evenings ago and the subject of body-snatching came up in some manner. The professional gentleman was in a reminiscent mood, and, inviting the scribe to reminiscent mood, and, inviting the scribe to accompany him to his residence, promised to legale him with a few interesting stories in this line. After being comfortably seated the gentleman began:

"Years ago, when I was starting out on my professional career, subjects were very scarce, and the means resorted to to get possession of bodies were even more reprehensible than now. I was attending college in this city and made the acquaintance of old man Cunningham, who in his day was a noted character. 'Cunny,' as he was called, furnished the bodies to the as he was caned, furnished the bodies to the college, and you may be sure that he was never very closely questioned as to where he got them. One night, after a very dull season, Cunningham was ordered to bring in a subject at any risk. As luck would have it his assistant, a burly negro, was sick, and it began to look as though the trip would have to be abandoned. I was young and enthusias-tic and I volunteered to accompany 'Cunny' on his ghoulish trip. Arrangements being perfected, I met Cunny' at the corner of Eighth and Mound streets. He had an old express wagon, and I mounted the seat with him and the trip commenced. 'Cunny' was not very talkative, but after we had reached the out. talkative, but after we had reached the out-skirts of the city he unfolded his plans. Our skirts of the city he unfolded his plans. Our destination was a cemetery in the northern part of the county, and my duties, as defined by 'Cunny,' were to act as lookout while he did the work of exhuming the body. We finally reached the cemetery, and the night being very dark our progress was, of necessity, slow. We finally gained an entrance and groped our way between the tombstones until we reached a new-made grave. I was stationed a few feet away, and 'Cunny' went to work with his new-made grave. I was stationed a few feet away, and 'Cunny' went to work with his shovel. He dug a hole at the head of the grave, and in a short time reached the coffin. I heard a splintering of wood, and out of curiosity walked over to the grave. 'Cunny' had broken in the lid of the coffin and exposed the head and shoulders of the corpse to view. Next he procured a stout rope, with a sharp hook attached to one end. The hook he caught in the chin of the corpse and then asked my assistance to haul the body out. We lugged at the rope for a second or two, when suddenly the rope slacked and the head of the corpse was the next instant jerked from the body and lay tour feet. I never felt so queer in my life, our feet. I never felt so queer in my life, d I am sure 'Cunny,' hardened as he was, felt the effects of the ghastly result. NOTICE by the Mayor and General Council of the City of Atlanta of the holding of an election to determine the question whether bonds shall be issued by said city for the purpose of increasing the water supply of said city:

not the market and we must clear the way for them. We have a considerable amount of odd pieces of China, Crockery and Glassware on hand, as well as a great many odd pieces in other lines. In fact, if you want any odd pieces in the line we carry, you can get it this week at a greatly reduced price. These goods that we are selling are strictly first-class. It is not old stock, because we carry none of that. In transportation frequently a dish or a bowl, a pitcher or some part of a set is broken, which renders it almost impossible for us to realize full price upon it. Recollect our "Odds." They are strictly first-class, both in design and finish. The sale will continue only one week longer. Call in tomorrow morning at 45 Peachtree street and see us.

THE STOCK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock NEW YORK, October 7.—The stock market today was in marked contrast to that of yesterday.

It was rather dull, especially in the afternoon, while in place of the wide fluctuations and sharp movements of yesterday there were comparatively small changes in quotations throughout the day, and little decided tendency of prices at any time. The feeling on the street was undoubtedly easier, and many regarded the situation as likely to improve from this time out, and buyers were en prove from this time out, and buyers were encouraged by some support from London in early trading. The general opinion was that any forced liquidation was pretty nearly completed, and that stocks had undoubtedly gone into stronger hands, and evidences of buying by insiders in several of the larger properties were seen. A strong opening was had, and the demand from London, with that from the shorts, was sufficient to make further slight gains in early trading. The advance. that from the shorts, was sufficient to make further slight gains in early trading. The advance, however, was the occasion of some selling, when the demand slacked away, and toward noon the bears gathered courage enough to renew the presure; and prices were carried down to below the opening figures in almost everything traded in, while Burlington and Guiney, Rock Island, Atchison, Tennessee Coal and some others displayed marked weakness under the assault, and Sugar Befineries brought up the rear, with a drop of 2 marked weakness under the assaut, and sugar Refineries brought up the rear, with a drop of 2 per cent from the best figures of the forenoon. Good buying again appeared, and late in the day a material recovery from the lowest prices was scored, the market leaving off quiet but firm, gen-erally at insignificant changes from the opening figures. Sales 195,000 listed and 34,000 shares un-listed.

Exchange quiet and weak at 482@487. Money easy at 3@6, closing offered at Money easy at 3@6, closing offered at 2. Sub-treasury balances: Coin $149,543,000; cur-rency $6,265,000.

3,560 Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular, Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular, NEW YORK, October I—[Special] — The continued rainy weather over the cotton belt has at last attracted the notice of Manchester and the strength of Liverpool today is largely due to the demand from spinners to cover the contracts they have entered into for the further delivery of yarns.
It is believed abroad that they have in many instances entered into engagements that places their production practically out of the market until January next. Our advance was sustained by the production practically out of the market until January next. Our advance was sustained by the appearance of American spinners in the market to secure a portion of their requirements at the basis of present prices. While the fear of an unfavorable bureau has created a small buying demand, the short interest remains confident and largely undisturbed. The impression universally current in mercantile circles that the year's crop is the largest on record is difficult to shake, even with the had accounts coming to hand daily. Our market closed steady with a disposition to look for better prices tomorrow.
